'DON'T BE SO GOOD TO A NIGGER'

In response to my column on understanding black revolutionaries, I received a letter full of such hate and sickness that it almost made me sick. It was discouraging that an attempt to promote understanding of the race issue should touch off such venom and hostility. But it was more than that. It was an incredible letter. The blacks talk about white racists and most whites think they exaggerate, but if this letter were representative of the white race, they would be putting it mildly.

My first reaction was to publish the entire letter to show people what kind of racism, racial prejudice, race bias, or whatever you call it, the black people are up against; to show what kind of diseased thinking there is in some white minds; to give a real down-to-earth, shocking example of what black people are complaining about and fighting against. The letter was a classic in its mixture of hate and paternalistic condescension toward the Negro race.

But I hesitated. Printing a letter like this tends to reinforce such thinking in the minds of people who already think similar things.

Seeing it in print might have the effect of making them think, "Aha, this is what I've been thinking all along." Even if they might agree that this letter was a big extreme, they might still say, "He does have some good points." Publishing such material might give it some respectability, and that's the last thing we want to do.

Nevertheless, the desire was too great to pass along at least part of the letter in the hopes that it might enlighten some people to the sickness behind race prejudice, and how it disguises itself in paternalistic attitudes. Also in the hopes that it might enlighten people who are already aware of this sickness in white society as to how bad it really is. As for the blacks, it would be nothing new to them.

Here are some excerpts from that appalling letter:

"Dear Jim Dygert: How you can agree with that black bastard jim ingram is something that I cant understand for the life of me.

"I am sure that that ingram caracter can be arrested for something because its a crime the way he insults the white people who are feeding him and has the nerve then to say we didn't help in the civil war. My Grandad fought in the civil war to free the ungrateful bastard and he sits there in that picture and grins at us good white people who want to treat the coloreds better when they learn how to act a little better.

"We read ingrams colum and show it to all our friends to see what a black son of a bitch does when he gets a job because he was smart enough to go to college for 4 or 5 years but is stupid enough to 'speak out' against the same race of people he is working for. (Editor's note: Ingram never went to college.)

"But maybe ingram dont work for white, I mean maybe you are not white but a portugese or jew or something that changed his name. No self respecting white American would write about black revolutionaries so open as you did in support of them. And they will be getting rid of dont worry.

"But guys like ingram and his ik just sit there and collect white money and lie and

IT WAS A SHOCKER--ALL GIRLS DIDN'T WANT HIM

Hamp Ellis, 38, a Charlotte, N.C. Electrician, bragged that he couldn't care less if his wife, Ruby, 33, kicked him out. "I can always find another bed-mate."

"It will be a joke on Ruby if this particular sister turns out to be a better piece."

Ten days later he told the same buddies he was in serious sex trouble. "I can't find a sister who will move into the apartment I rented."

"The only broads I would consider are already booked up either with a husband or a steady stud."

"All that is left is a bunch of beasts I wouldn't invade with my worst enemy's sex equipment."

He endured it two more days. "Then I swallowed my pride," he told officials, "and went to my former residence and asked Ruby if she would let me back in."

"All I want," he said quickly so he could get it said before his ex slammed the door, "...is one decent romp."

"This will last me until I can find another gal," he explained to Mrs. Ellis. "I have too much pride to fraternize with the only kind of women I could latch onto so far."

Mrs. Ellis said she wouldn't let him touch her if he begged on his bare knees and included a million dollars. "I had all of you I can stand!

I hope you starve to death sexually."

"This last comment was more than I could bear," Ellis told homicide investigators.

He took a .32 snub nose out of his pocket and shot his estranged wife in the neck.

"This did me no good," he told the cops who arrested him.

"I still got the same problem."

Whites Wreck School To Scare Blacks

White hooligans broke into an east Denver public school and vandalized eleven classrooms, destroying hundreds of dollars worth of textbooks and damaging desks, chairs and breaking windows.

The destructive honkies also defecated on papers looted from teachers' desks and wrote unprintable obscenities on blackboards. "We don't want nigger kids being bussed to white schools," a 27-year-old whitey alleged to be one of the vandals, said. "We want niggers kept in nigger schools."

The vandalized school is located in a black neighborhood and ninety percent of its pupils are blacks. It is one of the schools whose students may be bussed to so-called white schools next fall.

FARMER'S WIFE WASN'T IN ANY MOOD FOR SEX GAMES

Billy Quinn, a Cincinnati produce truck driver, developed a sudden sexual interest in Eugenia Neal when he saw her feeding the chickens on her Hamilton County farm. "I had never realized this little ape had such a body," he told the court, "but then I had never driven past her place when she was outside in her breakfast clothes."

Since Quinn, 20, had seen the woman's husband driving to town he turned into her farmyard and got out of his truck. "I am not going to waste time," he said. "I drove in here to lay you."

Mrs. Neal could do it voluntarily, he said, or he would beat her up first.

"He didn't take his eyes off me long enough to notice the axe on the chopping block," Mrs. Neal told deputies, "so I said I would take off my clothes voluntarily."

Moments later she was nude. "Jeez..." Quinn squeaked.

He began to peel. "He didn't take time to unbutton," Mrs. Neal said. "He ripped off his shirt."

The moment he was nude, Mrs. Neal darted to the axe and grabbed it. Then she whirled toward Quinn. "Walk backwards to the house, you white bastard," she said, "I'm gonna call the sheriff."

"And if you even act like running away I'll chop off that big tool you got!"

Quinn walked backwards. "He knew I would chop him," Mrs. Neal said.

After she phoned the Hamilton County Sheriff's office Quinn asked if he could sex her while they waited. "It'll be my last chance for a coon's age," he whined.

"I was so mad at the suggestion I almost whacked him," Mrs. Neal said.

A little later Deputies Mel Hartzel and Charlie Gilmore careened into the Neal farm yard. "I have never seen anything like it," Gilmore said. "This nude woman was holding the axe up like she was going to bring it down on the guy's crotch."

He was standing there mother-naked, so scared he was slobbering."

SEXUALLY DISHONEST BRIDE DENIES MAN BEDTIME FUN

William Renner 32, told an Indianapolis Criminal Court jury he had shot-gunned his wife, Irene, 32, because she was "sexually dishonest".

"Our honeymoon was a sexual fraud," he told the court.

"She gave me as fine a time as a man could ask for and I believed the rest of my life would be sexually happy."

But when Renner, a plumber, and his bride returned to Indianapolis Renner's bedroom happiness ended. "She put me on sex rations," he told the court. "She told me twice a week was enough."

When Renner got over the shock his lovely little bride said, "Any more would bang my butt out of shape."

"Also too much nibbling is not good for my breasts, not to mention the weight of your chest on them."

Renner agreed to the rations. "I thought she would be unable to stand to sleep with a guy who can put out professional sex and not succumb," he told the jury. "But if she held out I figured on getting my kicks while she was sleeping."

He miscalculated on both counts. "She didn't ask for it between the ration romps," he testified. "She was also impossible to touch while she slept."

"She instantly woke up every time I penetrated her."

This caused Mrs. Renner to sleep in their Delaware Street apartment's other bedroom except on the approved nights. "She had a lock put on this door and also a chain," Renner told the court.

"Sometimes even on ration nights she would dash into this sexual fortress after sex and barricade herself while I was resting up for the next round."

"Thus I only got one romp even on a ration night."

According to homicide investigators, she fled to her sexual sanctuary once too often. Renner allegedly got a sledge from the garage and broke down the door. Then he blasted his wife with both barrels of a .12-gauge shotgun.

"She was practically in two pieces," Det. Leonard Phipps said.

Judge John T. Davis of Criminal Court, Division 1, sentenced Renner to 2 to 14 years in the Indiana State Prison after the jury found him guilty.

FAT WOMAN CAN HOLD HER OWN

George (Shorty) Gregg, 31, got curious every time he saw Covina Henderson, 39, who was five two and weighed in at 300 pounds. "I wonder if that nigger gets any loving," he said, the day she waddled past the pool hall where Gregg was shooting a game.

"She is so fat I don't see how it could be done."

Friends said it was a good thing Gregg wasn't trying it. "As short as you are she'd bust out with funnies."

This infuriated Gregg. "He was very sensitive about his size," Raymond Edwards, 32, told officials.

Gregg glared at the men who had implied he wouldn't be able to sex

300 Pounds Explodes For Rapist

Mrs. Henderson. "I may be a little short up and down," he bellowed, "but I am not short where it counts!"

"I could give that fat nigger a ride if anybody could!"

His chief tormentor, Orlie Bates, 40, said he would bet ten dollars Gregg couldn't do it.

Gregg a sanitation department employee, accepted this bet. "He also took bets from three other guys," Edwards told investigators.

"He was very sore about the insinuations Bates had made about his sex organ."

According to evidence, Gregg—followed by his strange pals—.32-spooked Mrs. Henderson back of a billboard on Spruce Street the night after the bets. He made her peel and lay on the grass. Then he began to disrobe.

"He made a very stupid mistake when he laid his .32 where this fat nigger could get it," Edwards told the court.

"She picked it up and shot off his testicles."

CURIOUS WHITE KIDNAPS GIRL JUST TO LOOK AT UNTOUCHED NAKED BEAUTY

Horace Bristol, 26, a Miami hod carrier admitted that he was very curious about the structure of human female sex equipment. "I have laid several women but it has always been in the dark so I have never actually known what I was exploring."

"I have never even seen a complete woman in the raw."

"And I would like a chance to leisurely examine a nude female."

The nut's friends said this should be no great problem. "All you got to do is ask one of your girls to peel before you turn off the lights. If she has got any kind of figure at all she will be proud to let you look at it."

Bristol said he wouldn't have the nerve to ask his girlfriends to let him examine their nude bodies.

Several days later the curious whitey told his friends he had thought of a solution to his problem. "I'm going to grab a female nigger and look at her sex organs. I won't get bashful with a nigger anymore than with an animal since they are practically the same as apes."

According to evidence, Bristol glommed Joanne McBroom, 17, a high school senior.

He took the terrified girl to the north bank of the Miami river and tore off her clothes.

"He didn't sex me," Miss McBroom told Morals Squad Investigators. "He just looked at my breasts and between my legs."

Bristol told cops who put the grab on him that he was disappointed. "There certainly isn't anything fancy about female sex equipment," he said.

WHITE NUTS FEED BABY TO HUNGRY DOG JUST FOR LAUGHS

Keith Archer, 27, a Newark iron fabricator, told homicide officials he didn't know exactly why the idea of feeding a Negro baby to his German Shepherd occurred to him. "It hit me all at once while me and Jim Russell, were fooling around."

"At the time it seemed like a good way to get some laffs."

"We also figured we would actually be doing a good thing for the country since there are too many niggers already."

Homicide investigators said the pair drove around in Archer's '63 Ford looking for a Negro child they could snatch for their macabre fun.

They saw Verlyn Thomas, 10 months old, in a little red wagon pulled by his sister, Laurie Anne, 6, on Mulberry Street. "I slowed down and Russell ran out and snatched this little ape," Archer testified. "Then we high-tailed over to my house on Boyden."

"I went in the house to make sure my wife wasn't home—she works at a garment factory—then Russell puts this little ape inside his jacket and we went to my back yard."

Archer took the little boy and flung him to the snarling German Shepherd. "He sniffed him all over," Russell, a drive-in dishwasher, told police, "then he took a bite out of his guts."

"The way that little nigger flopped around was a ball."

It wasn't long before the German Shepherd had eaten all of the little boy. "He then started on his bones," Russell said.

"He crushed them and ate them, too."

The white barbarians were arrested last month, about a week after Russell mouthed off in a Warren Street tavern.

Both entered guilty pleas in exchange for manslaughter charges rather than risk the death sentence in a courtroom countdown.

THE BLACK AUSTRALIANS

The lot of the Black man is at its lowest point in a country usually noted for its understanding and progress—Australia.

Treated like animals in the backwoods of the huge island continent “down under,” the Blacks are the few remaining Aboriginal men that Captain James Cook found and hunted like animals several centuries ago.

Now largely confined to life on sprawling government reservations, the Aboriginals are still treated like animals.

They live in conditions that would be considered substandard in even the least civilized parts of the world.

Although they represent one per cent of the total Australian population, the Aborigines are seldom seen in the cities or on the highways.

Usually they live near dumps where they can root through trash for the few possessions that separate them from the animals.

Few attend school and those who do make poor students. Their lack of incentive is matched equally with the average Australian's interest in their welfare.

Many labor like barnyard animals for pay so low that they may as well be considered unemployed. Their own real source of other income is the fee they charge tourists for taking their pictures

SEVEN COPS BEAT MAN, 73, IN TRY TO TAKE HIS HOME

John Stalks, 73, a retired railroader had worked long hard years to pay for his little brick house at 2601 Race Street, Denver. “I couldn’t believe my ears when this white deputy came to my house and said I had to get out, that they were taking my house from me,” he said.

The elderly man had been ordered to evict his house on a court restitution order directing him to forfeit it to satisfy a $17,500 suit judgment resulting from a 1965 auto crash.

“I told this deputy my little house was all I had except my pension and I wasn’t going to let anybody take it from me just because I lost a lawsuit.”

“I also told him I wouldn’t have lost that lawsuit if it hadn’t been a white I had accidentally hit with my car, and a white judge and jury.”

The deputy went away after trying to talk the old man into getting out of his house. “I barricaded my windows and doors,” Stalks said. “I nailed 2x4s across every one of them.”

The deputy came back the next day with two more deputies and six Denver police officers.

These white minions of the law broke down Stalks’ front door and stormed inside to be met by the valiant old man with a 3-foot section of lead pipe in his hands.

“It has been clearly demonstrated that sheriff’s and police officers met with violent resistance by John Stalks...” Denver Police Chief Georgy Seaton reported.

“Four officers were injured.”

But eventually the cops were able to knock the old man to the floor. Then he was allegedly stomped!

One officer, Chief Seaton reported to Denver Mayor McNichols “may have inadvertently kicked Stalks while the older man was on the floor of his home...”

“It is unfortunate,” the chief continued, “that a 73-year-old man was injured. However, he first assaulted officers with a metal pipe that caused serious injury to several law enforcement officers.”

The brave old man lost the house which he had worked so hard to pay for and tried so courageously to defend. In addition, besides injuries from the stomping, he faces “a variety” of charges for laying the four cops on the floor.

HE WANTED TO FIND OUT IF BLACK SEX IS BEST

POOCH ROBERSON'S light skin almost saved her from the brutal rapist who had to ask her if she was white or black before he grabbed her and raped her beside the river in St. Paul.

AFTER 11 DAYS, Miss Roberson's body was a mass of bloated flesh with huge holes where the fish had eaten.

Lloyd Shelby, 27, a St. Paul, Minnesota salvage yard mechanic, told Ramsey County homicide detectives that he wouldn't be in trouble if he hadn't decided to do something about his urge to sex a Negro.

"All my life I have heard that niggers are twice as sexy as us white people," he said.

"I decided to find out for myself."

He asked several Black girls for a boogie date. "I got insulted by every one of them," he told Det. Neal Sheehan. "This surprised the hell out of me. I thought niggers was anxious to mingle with whitefolks."

Finally the whitey grabbed Pleasant (Pooch) Roberson, 23, one of the most beautiful girls in St. Paul.

"I took her into this bunch of trees on the river south of St. Paul Park," he told officials, "and peeled her."

"Then I gave her breasts some professional attention after which I gave her a sexual penetration."

When the whitey's lust was sated he held the nude beauty's head under the river's surface until she drowned. "I then swung her by her heels until I had worked up momentum," he said, "after which I threw her out in the channel."

A man who had seen him abduct Miss Roberson reported his license number after she was declared missing and homicide investigators squeezed out a confession.

Eleven days later Ramsey County rescuers snagged the drowned girl's body. She was no longer pretty. Her skin had rotted off and catfish had nibbled off most of her face.

YOUR GAMBLING $$$ GO TO THE MAFIA

It is estimated that 70% of the adult population in the U.S. gambles—or at least thinks that is what it is doing. Americans wager $500 billion a year, only $10 billion of which is gambled legally. It is through collection of the debts for gambling losses that organized crime invades legitimate businesses, obtains the favors of politicians and law enforcement authorities, and multiplies its profits with high interest loans to the debtors by loan sharks.

Gambling is the life blood of the Mafia. Its annual profits from dice, cards and roulette wheels are no more difficult to predict than it is for General Motors to project its sales a year in advance.

Gambling is profitable to organized crime leaders because they are not gamblers—they do not subject themselves to the whims of chance. To the Mafia gambling is a business, a very big business—not a game. Throughout the U.S. the Mafia employs hundreds of “mechanics” (fixers) to make sure that gambling remains big and profitable, to make sure that it controls who “wins,” to make sure that the gambling is not really gambling at all because in true gambling everyone has a chance of winning.

The mechanic generally starts the game, and depending on the type of gambling involved, the Mafia sends a specialist to make sure that no true gambling takes place.

Because of the way the Mafia uses its gambling business operations to get businessmen and others indebted to it and in its power, state and federal law enforcement agencies pay particularly close attention to the names of those who are arrested in gambling raids. Those who are arrested, usually charged with a misdemeanor (loitering in a place of illegal occupation), may well be needing protection from loan sharks or from having their businesses becoming fronts for illegal activities.

The Mafia promotes its gambling business by playing upon every human desire or weakness it can. Prostitutes are stationed at gaming tables to stimulate bigger and bigger wagers. Alcohol, drugs and narcotics are given directly to gamblers or concealed in their drinks.

Guns and strongarm men are usually present at big games in case anyone suspects a fix and causes trouble. Dice, cards and other gambling equipment present are frequently fixed in ways that only the mechanic knows.

The greatest human frailty the Mafia plays upon is greed—the desire to get a lot for a little money and no work through the element of chance. Hundreds of businessmen who survive the pitfalls, overcome the obstacles and win the gambles in their businesses see their hard-earned incomes lost in a single evening over a gambling table.

Jerry Hall was formerly a “mechanic.” He can—and often does—explain the many ways he used to destroy businessmen. For several years, Hall was employed as a free-lance mechanic, accepting a game. His bankers covered the full spectrum of professions, from doctors and lawyers to Mafia dons.

How Hall served his bankers depended upon his connections. When Hall was employed by a lawyer who was trying to wipe out his law partner, he would often just run off with the bank. First, however, he would return the lawyer some small winnings until he would substantially increase the amount of the bank. Knowing that the legitimate lawyer lacked “muscle,” he had nothing to fear. Hall never went anywhere without a knife and he knew how to use it.

If Hall was employed by the Mafia, however, he would work on a commission basis and the Mafia would collect the debts. Hall never allowed a gambler to wager anything but cash unless his banker was a member of the Syndicate. Working for a syndicate banker was much safer too, because that meant “muscle” for protection if anyone became unruly.

Hall's early years were rough; they taught him how to live with terror and how to use it. Raised in a Mexican-American community on the west side of Denver, Colo., Hall earned his lunch money by gambling when he was nine years old. When he was 11, his mother bought him his first gambling equipment—two decks of cards, 4 pair of dice and some poker chips. By then, a knife was already as necessary a part of his attire as a shirt.

After he joined the Army at the age of 15 in 1946, Hall's gambling career blossomed further. While in Korea, Hall was bankrolled by a staff sergeant who gave Hall 25% of the take. Hall earned $1,000 a month from gambling. The sergeant was taking in more than $4,000 a month from Hall's winnings alone and had other mechanics working for him besides.

After his discharge in 1949 and a prison sentence for auto theft from which he was paroled after a year, Hall resumed the gambling mechanic trade.

He would become an employee of a legitimate business and show his boss a few card tricks. Fascinated by Hall's ability, the boss would soon be bankrolling Hall to wipe out his business associates. In the end, Hall would wipe out everyone, including the boss.

Occasionally, he would be commissioned by the Syndicate to fix a game. Hall knew better than to try to cheat the Mafia. Hall also knew better than to become a part of the mob. He worked only on a free-lance basis, meeting someone with money and information on the game, but never the big men behind the money. This way, Hall could get out when he wanted to because he didn't know anything.

Watching Hall work with dice or cards should convince anyone not to gamble. Nevertheless, frequently it happens that after a talk and demonstration before a business group, a businessman will come up to him and request his services. Businessmen often watch Hall's demonstration and then go right out and gamble. At conventions, Hall has observed businessmen gambling after watching his demonstration. The “mechanics” were right in there with them.

Watching one of Hall's demonstrations is especially fascinating because there are no fancy tricks. It's all business. A gambling mechanic is a scientist, rather than an artist, and some of his tools are very complex. Among them are some contact lenses to read marked cards, electro-magnetically controlled dice, the ordinary marked cards, and a wide assortment of other devices. It is practically impossible for the average gambler to recognize them when they are in use.

Hall however, preferred not to use such tools. They were unnecessary and they might be detected. Hall needs no tools but his hands to control the outcome of a card or dice game. Such methods as holding cards out of the deck, crimping the deck and second-card dealing are enough. Tranquilizers in an opponent's drink help too. Often, two or more mechanics will work together, with the "working" mechanic feeding good cards to his partner.

Hall is able to give many pointers on how to spot a card cheat or a mechanic, but he says the best advice is not to gamble at all. First, it's very unusual to be able to spot a mechanic. Secondly, it can lead to violence if you do.

The mechanic has a bag of tricks to protect himself, short of violence, if he is detected. For example, a gambler who thinks he has spotted a mechanic on the opposite side of a card table usually leans towards the mechanic as he points the accusing finger. The mechanic presses his stomach against the opposite side of the table, exchanging accusations. Then the mechanic suddenly pushes his chair and backs away from the table; the accuser suddenly falls across the table and he becomes the accused because he apparently messed up the table to cover up.

With dice, a detected mechanic simply slaps the outstretched dice from the accuser's hand, sending them across the room, and starts a fight to avenge the "insult to his integrity." In the scuffle, the loaded dice are forgotten.

Hall began to leave his occupation as a gambling mechanic after his second sentence at the Colorado State Reformatory, 1 to 23 years because he had broken parole from his previous sentence.

In prison Hall met a Catholic priest who taught him about religion and he argued religion with his cellmates. Hall's favorite past-time in prison was to disillusion other prisoners by pointing out inconsistencies in their faiths. The prison had a point system for obtaining early parole and attending church was one way to obtain points. Within a year, Hall was again free and now, he said, a member of what he called Jesus Christ's mob.

Hall decided he wouldn't take any action for less than $10,000. Anything less wasn't worth going against his religion. He continued to carry his knife because he could not imagine survival without it.

One evening in 1954, Hall was driving in Detroit when a car containing two drunks ran into the rear of his car. Hall jumped from his car and thrust his knife to the throat of the drunk. The two drunks immediately stopped their abusive language and apologized.

That evening, Hall went to his legitimate job as a salesman for a cemetery. Looking across the cemetery, Hall said he realized that he would someday kill somebody. On the other hand, he felt if he gave up his knife, he himself would soon be dead. After a long time in thought, he buried the knife in the cemetery and was unarmed for the first time since his early childhood.

Without his knife, he could no longer work as a gambling mechanic. Also about this time, Hall met the woman who was to become his wife. Today, Hall has 10 children and a list of credentials that would impress anyone. He has been a systems sales representative for Remington Rand, assistant executive secretary for the Flint Chamber of Commerce and executive director of the Wyandotte Board of Commerce. He now lives in Dearborn on $7,500 a year.

Hall said he could go out any day and make several thousand dollars in an evening as a gambling mechanic. At his gambling demonstrations, he is often told where the "action" is. Little good seems to come from his demonstrations, because every "chump" has a fool-proof system. These fool-proof systems have helped the Mafia invade hundreds of businesses.

According to Hall, there's a mechanic at every big game. And where there's a mechanic, there's no gambling—because there's no element of chance. The mechanic may let a man win for a while to suck him in, but he takes over when ever he wants. The only one who wins is the Mafia.

SAMMY DAVIS JR. asked MIKE DOUGLAS to put a Mezuzah (Jewish holy object) on Roman Catholic MIKE'S TV co-star's door and MIKE of course did.

Black is Beautifully Prosperous: Mattel's bringing out a "Julia" doll based on DIAHANH CARROLL'S TV role; there'll also be a BILL COSBY doll.

The 235-pound ex-heavyweight, SONNY LISTON, lost his temper when two young musclemen in a bar teased him about his massive size. When LISTON called them foul names, the two guys ganged up on him. But he slammed their heads together and ran out, leaving them dazed on the floor.

BILL COSBY became hysterical with fear of heights after he'd taken a ride to the top of a mountain peak outside of Palm Springs, Calif. COSBY refused to take the ride back down. His condition became so critical that he had to be removed from the mountain top by a helicopter.

BOB GIBSON, St. Louis Cardinals' ace pitcher, may be another Negro who has as big a show business future as former Cleveland football player JIMMY BROWN. BOB plans a lot of singing, dancing and joke-telling this off season, and a couple of producers have asked him to do feature roles in movies. The only trouble is that BOB would have to miss spring training. Bob is 33 and needs to look ahead. Handsome black males are very big in Hollywood today, and the top producers are looking for all they can get. So are some top actresses who still believe that old myth (?) that black men are more virile.

PEARL BAILEY is still making $8,000 a week from "Hello, Dolly," and that's why she can afford an apartment that costs $1,500 a month, a $35,000 diamond ring and a Rolls Royce.

All of DIAHANH CARROLL'S terrific success on TV in "Julia" hasn't given her the two things she would secretly like most in life—a big bosom, and SIDNEY POITIER. Flat-chested DIAHANH is famous for that time she had her gown break while playing the Copa, and her bosom was completely exposed to the audience for a second or two. "Well," she blithely said, "Now you know what Audrey Hepburn and I have in common." It seemed like she was really above it all, but she cried in her dressing room later. As for SID, DIAHANH still carries the torch for him, no matter what anyone tells you.

The venerable CAB CALLOWAY, now singing the role of Mr. Horace Vandergelder in "Hello, Dolly!" has always owned a large dog as a pet. Then MRS. CALLOWAY got Muffin, a Yorkshire terrier, as a present from their oldest daughter. Somehow Muffin wooed her way into CAB'S heart enough so that he agreed to take her to the Barbetta Masquerade (a dress-alike fashion show for master and pet) en route to his show, her costume being that of Dolly. When asked what was special about Muf-fin, CAB replied, "She's the smartest and funniest little thing we ever owned."

BARBARA MCNAIR confides to intimates that she has gotten so much publicity and so many fabulous movie offers since she appeared in those torrid nude love scenes in "If He Hollers, Let Him Go," that she must may bare her all a few more times in the near future.

OTIS YOUNG of "The Outcasts" TVer and his co-star, DON MURRAY, aren't acting too chummy toward one another.

CAROL COLE, daughter of the late NAT KING COLE, got married and had a baby, and the word is just getting out. The lucky man is musician MARTIN KIB-BEE, a relative of ROLAND KIBBEE. Baby is a boy who has been named SAGE. No, CAROL most definitely is not giving up her career which was getting off to a good start at Columbia. She had a feature role with STELLA STEVENS and SHELLEY WINTERS in "The Mad Room" before she up and married. In fact, the way the studio learned that CAROL had married and become a mother was when she was asked to go out on a tour plugging the film. CAROL had to say "No" because the baby is too little to leave. But she assured the Columbia brass she'll be ready to go into another picture in a short time.

Those lovey-dovey photo of JIM BROWN and RAQUEL WELCH that have been turning up in movie magazines lately aren't just publicity shots for their film. Raquel has confided to friends that it really excites her to do love scenes with a black man, and she is doing her feminine best to convince JIM that he ought to pursue their "frendship" away from the cameras.

SAMMY DAVIS JR. had a spectacularly bad PM in one of the Las Vegas clubs recently. After losing more than $1,000 at the dice tables, he found that somebody with light fingers had heisted $3,000 from the pocket of his mink coat.

LENA HORNE and LEN-NIE HAYTON admit they are living apart, but neither wants to file for divorce.

They're calling LESLIE UGGAMS several allegedly comical names—such as SMOTHERS UGGAMS, UGGAMS SMOTHERS or

by dale roberts

the SMOTHERS SISTER—but LESLIE smiles through this purported wit, determined to be herself when she takes over for the SMOTHERS BROTHERS on CBS. She'll be on friendly terms with white people. "I never had any obstacles from whites," she says. "When I was with MITCH MILLER for 3 ½ years, I was the first black on TV every week. I think when people take to you, you can break them down." Only 25, she'll be one of the most-looked-at-gals in the U.S. There'll be some satire, plenty of jokes, and some groups, but: "I'm not going to have the Singing Draft-Card Burners on the show." LESLIE and her husband, GRAHAME PRATT, didn't yet have a phone in their new home in Beverly Hills when CBS gave her the show—she couldn't phone anybody to brag. Part of the prestige is having her own parking space at CBS in Hollywood. A sign says LESLIE UGGAMS. "I've got to get a car," she says, "So I can use my parking space."

JAMES BROWN earned $93,500 recently when he gave the concert at Madison Square Garden, but don't forget he only nets about $4,000 out of that. Still, $4,000 a night comes to over a million a year. This is one guy who has kept his humble, though. He does his bit for his people, more than his bit, but believes we should "not hate, but communicate." Great guy...

PEARL BAILEY just doesn't know anything about not making a success of anything she tries and maybe that's the reason she's still such a hit in "Hello, Dolly."

THAT MAN CLAY may have connected well in the ring but he's having a rugged time trying to find a spot where he can make the money he's gotten used to living on.

LOU ANNE KNOWS HOW TO BEAT THE SUMMER

Summertime in the city doesn't have to be a series of deadly hot days for the girl who can't get away to the beach more often than once a week.

All it takes is a little ingenuity, an air conditioned apartment and neighbors who aren't interested in dropping by unexpectedly to catch a girl while she's wearing just as little as possible.

Lovely Lou Anne took time out one evening recently to prove that she can get through the day in clothes that look chic but still are cool.

Not that the series of photos show a lot of her summer wardrobe, but there are enough of the unusual items to give the effect she started out to convey to the photographer.

But even air conditioning can't cool down a girl's desire to pose in the garments which she most prefers.

And suddenly, it dawned on the photographer that Lou Anne was best depicted in as little as possible.

From that moment on, the job became a labor of joy. Lou Anne moved gracefully through her pad demonstrating the many positions she finds comfortable during the rare moments when she has no one else to share her most secret thoughts.

Not that she's opposed to sharing her thoughts, she's known as a lovely girl who does not number being alone as one of her favorite ways to spend time.

It's just that, well, she'd like to be able to act like this every once in a while just for a change of pace.

If you're the type of male who could stand having a girl lounge around your apartment in poses like this, don't call Lou Anne—she'll call you.

BLACKS ASSAULTED IN BOSTON MASSACRE

James Cooper, 28, his wife, Lena May, 26, and three of his wife's friends were in South Boston when Cooper, a television repairman, stopped at a traffic light.

"A bunch of whiteys on the sidewalk began to taunt us," Mrs. Cooper told homicide investigators. "About 20 of the filthy-mouthed boobs."

Cooper and the women tried to ignore the tormenting whites but this angered them. They blocked the car. "We locked the doors," Mrs. Cooper said. "We were scared. They were threatening to do some pretty bad things."

The whites tried to break into the car. They couldn't do it with their fists so they got a plank and smashed the windshield. "We had to scrooch down to keep from having our head squashed by the plank," Mrs. Cooper said.

One of the whiteys reached in and unlocked the driver's door while others kept Cooper immobilized with the plank. Then they opened the door and jerked Cooper out while their pals, meanwhile, opened the car's other doors.

"We don't like niggers that ignore us!" one of the whiteys screamed. "You heard what we called you and you just sat in there pretending you didn't hear us."

They stabbed Cooper 20 times, homicide investigators said. Then they stomped the faces of his wife and her friends until they were mushy, blood-oozing caricatures.

Ironically—or was it?—the incident occurred in front of a police station whose occupants didn't hear the victims' screams or otherwise become aware of the vicious attack until one of the Black women, Jasmine Ralphs, 23, staggered into the station after her face had been pulpied.

The blond beauties split after the cops came out.

Cooper died later in City Hospital.

For The Sexually Tractable Adult: This Explicitly Illustrated Volume

SEXUAL LOVEMAKING by Frank S. Caprio, M.D.

SADLY, most adult males (and more than a few females) learn to love sex—without ever learning to love sexually. Yet, today, human sexuality is the legitimate object of popular inquiry; physical modes of sexual intimacy, too, are openly explored in lay books and periodicals. But these writings, while supposedly describing the physiological factors of "sexual mechanics," often pay tribute to outdated taboos and minority mores—with time-wasting, obelisk word-camouflage. Thus, definitive instruction in the lovemaking arts isn't always easy to come by; one can only speculate how many marriages suffer thereby.

That's why SEXUAL LOVEMAKING's functional art de l'ère is to DO even more than it says. That's why its author, Frank S. Caprio, M.D. (an eminent psychiatrist, marriage counselor and world-famous sexologist), resists the threatening imprecations of self-appointed critics who inhabit a puritanical world of their own. Definitely not a moribund "marriage manual" of abundant aphorisms—to God, motherhood and the flag, no slight intended—this book informs, instructs and, unabashedly, illustrates techniques of pleasurable loveplay, intercourse and sexual variations. A "bedroom book," then? Yes! Voluptuously frank, SEXUAL LOVEMAKING is more useful, far more usable, in the bedroom than in the library. If you find this distasteful, dissent or dissolve, read no more; for the book itself would only nettie your sensibilities. If not, you may secure a copy (at a special substantially reduced price) by returning the coupon below.

OLD MAN'S HOBBY GOT BIG LAUGHS UNTIL HE MURDERED CHILD, 4, TO MEASURE HER BLOOD

After Harry Keill, 66, retired as bookkeeper for an Omaha wholesale firm he became interested in anatomy, spending most of his time trapping stray dogs and cats and operating on them in the little laboratory he had in the basement of his Center Street house.

"You would be surprised at how much blood there is in a medium size dog," he told his neighbor, Clyde Gilpin, 62. "Sometimes I wonder how much there is in a person?"

It wasn't long before Keill decided to find out. "I started looking for a nigger kid who looked unwanted so I could drain out its blood and measure it."

"I thought I would gain some useful knowledge and get rid of a nigger at the same time." This last part, he told homicide investigators, would be a patriotic deed. "The country is infested with unwanted niggers," he explained.

WHEN HE couldn't find a Black baby for his experiment, the old man used this small child.

Keill couldn't find a Black child. "Niggers take better care of their kids than I had thought," he told officials. "So I decided to use a white kid."

He picked up 4-year-old Debbie Hoskins who was playing on the sidewalk in front of her parents' South 23rd Street house.

Homicide investigators said he took the little girl to his laboratory and severed her throat. Then he held the flailing, gurgling child by her heels while her blood drained into a plastic bucket.

His neighbor, Gilpin, reported him to police after radio announcements stated that the little girl was missing.

"I should have been a doctor," Keill told the detectives who arrested him. "That last experiment was very interesting."

Judge Adolf Stastney sent the crazy bookkeeper to the Nebraska mental farm at Hastings.

BLACK TEACHER CLEARED AFTER SEX CHARGES BY GIRL, 11

Jordan B. Pugh, 33, the only Black teacher at the Berylwood Elementary School in Ventura, California couldn't believe it when a cop put the grab on him with an arrest warrant. "What am I supposed to have done?" he said.

"You showed your tricks to one of the girls in your class, as if you didn't know," the cop snarled.

"Consider yourself lucky it wasn't my little girl."

Pugh told police that he hadn't indecently exposed himself to his students. "I might as well as have tried explaining to a fence post," Pugh said. "He had his mind made up that I'd molested this girl, whoever she was."

Pugh found out who she was when he was hauled into court before a 12-white jury. The girl, 11, testified that Pugh had not only exposed himself but had made "indecent advances" toward her.

It looked bad for Pugh. An 11-year-old kid is jail bait any way you cut it and the kid told a story that stirred the jury.

But Pugh's attorney contended the charges stemmed from the girl's racial prejudices. "You bet, I hate niggers," she allegedly said. "They hadn't ought to be teaching school."

Her charges fell apart when nine of Pugh's students took the stand in his behalf backing up his lawyer's charge that the girl disliked the teacher because he was Black.

After a week of wondering how much time the all-white jury was going to toss him, Pugh was pleasantly surprised when he was acquitted.

"That kid really worried me," he said. "I'm black and she was white and it was a sex charge."

"That's a prison package."

BOMB-TOSSING WHITES ONLY REGRET BLACKS NOT LIVING IN HOMES HIT IN DYNAMITE RAID

When racists in South Omaha said they didn't want housing for disadvantaged Blacks in their white neighborhood nobody paid much attention. That is, until last month when they destroyed 11 units with dynamite blasts.

"We will have to tear them down and start from scratch," Construction Superintendent Pete Melcher reported. "Whoever sabotaged us knew where to put the dynamite to get the maximum damage."

"When those blasts went off the entire structures were blasted out of plumb."

A week ago Douglas

County deputies put the arm on Jack Rowell and Ned Blomstrom, both 26, and both employed by a Sarpy County construction firm. "We blew up them nigger houses," Powell admitted to officials.

"Where we goofed is not waiting until niggers were living in them."

NIPPLE BURNERS PUT BEAUTY IN HOSPITAL

Steve Hecht and Harold Nash, 19, construction laborers for a Chicago house building firm, were riding around in Hecht's new red Camero with their girls while they tried to think of some kind of fun. "We naturally always liked to get our girls in a happy mood before we took them out to Deer Grove where we gave them the flesh," Nash told Cook County investigators.

"A girl reacts better if she is happy."

Suddenly an idea occurred to Hecht, a 170-pound 4F. "Let's grab us a nigger and have a little fun touching her nipples and eyes with the hot end of cigarettes!"

Everybody thought this would be hilarious. "It sounded like more fun than drinking beer or a drive-in movie, which we were tired of," Nash's girl, Connie Galton, 18, a big busted blonde, told Morals Detail detectives.

The fun-seekers snatched Renia Holcombe, 17, off a sidewalk in Skokie then sped on U.S. 14 to Deer Grove a woods in Chicago's northwest metropolitan area.

They tore off the beautiful girl's clothes and put the red ends of their cigarettes on her nipples. "That ape yelled loud enough to hear her down in the loop," Hecht said.

"We like to bust a gut laughing."

Then the gang shoved their cigarettes into the hapless girl's eyes. "It was a ball listening to her beg us not to blind her," Nash said.

The nude, blinded girl—her breasts grotesquely swollen—staggered onto U.S. 14 after her cruel tormenters went away. A motorist took her to St. Joseph's Hospital where she gave investigators such an accurate description of her abductors and their car that police arrested them.

THIS IS WHAT A STUDENT PROTEST IS LIKE AT UCLA

NEGROES FORGOTTEN IN THE FLOOD

Nobody bothered to tell Artie Gruber, 43, and his sleeping family that the Missouri river was flooding and that its raging water would soon sweep through his little house in north Kansas City.

"It ain't that I got anything against niggers," Glen Hammond, a neighbor told Red Cross officials, "so it wasn't because I wanted to see that nigger family get drowned. . .but I just purely forgot about warning them while I was warning the white folks who lived in that valley."

Another white valley resident, Max Fellows, 37, said this was a bunch of stuff. "Time he warned us white folks he didn't have time to warn them niggers. The water was rising too fast."

Whatever the case, the Grubers—Artie, a disposal truck driver, his wife, Renia, and their four children, ages 5 to 16, were trapped by the waters from sudden spring cloudburst.

Volunteers in boats rescued the valley's 2 trapped white families but by the time they got around to save the Grubers the raging river's overflow was "too risky" for small boats.

The Grubers drowned sometime before dawn.

Their bodies, swept downstream, have not been recovered. "They're probably either buried in the mud or catfish ate by now," police reported.

Girl Dies Because Her Skin Is Light

Frank Corbett, 36, a Minneapolis mechanic, got mad when he saw William Hershey, 21, talking with two whites in a Third Avenue lounge. "If there was thing that burns my butt," he muttered to the man who stood beside him at the bar, "it's a light skin bopper."

It was dark, and the man, the first time he knew him, was sitting in the shadows of the bar at the time he saw the girl.

When Corbett, 36, saw the girl, he was sitting in the shadows of the bar at the time he saw the girl.

The girl, who was light-skinned, was sitting in the shadows of the bar at the time he saw the girl.

WIFE WANTED ROOM OF HER OWN TO AVOID SEX--GOT GRAVE INSTEAD

Doris Moss, 37, said that if she had it to do again she would find out if her fiancé was a front man before she married him.

"I knew that Walter had a hard time keeping his hands off my boobs," she said. "But after we were married he practically went berserk every time he saw them."

"He would rather mess with them than enjoy the main course."

She had to restrain him. "I like them to stand out," she told friends, "But the way he is going at them they will soon be hanging down to my navel."

"A pair of boobs has never been made that could hold up under what he does to them."

Moss, 38, a Milwaukee millwright, didn't stay restrained. "If I can't enjoy those boobs," he said, "I might as well have stayed single."

"In fact I would have been better off because then I could enjoy other boobs."

Mrs. Moss said she wasn't buying this sympathy pitch.

"The looks of my breasts means more to me than your animal desires."

"I decided not to argue about it," Moss told friends.

"Instead I resolved to proceed per usual once we got in bed."

The next day while Moss was at work his wife hired carpenters to build another bedroom onto their house. When he came home, Moss bellowed, "Kindly tell me what the hell is going on."

Mrs. Moss told him the preceding night's sex had convinced her she wasn't safe in the same bed with him. "So I am having my own bedroom built."

This would enable her to control their sex, she said. "I will dole out all you need. However that will definitely not include boob pinching. Also, when we finish, I will go to my own room so that I can sleep peacefully."

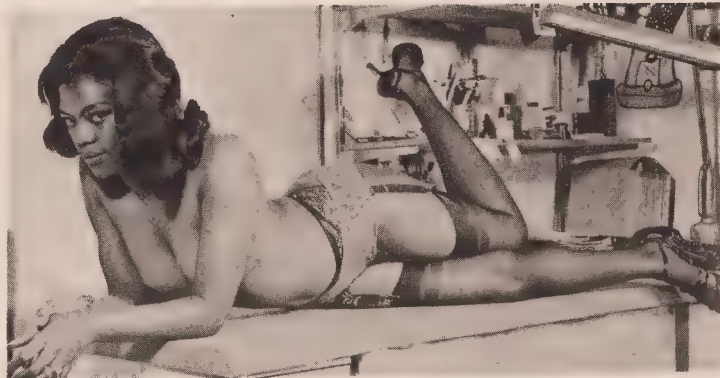

When Moss got over the shock he allegedly swooped

READER WARNS OF BLACK POWER

get payed for it too just because he went to college. I didn't go to college but no black bastard who learned some big words is smarter than me because words aren't everything.

"Most of you jews are alright mr. Dygert but you get too friendly with the blacks for your good, your own good. Dont forget your in America now and not in hitler nazi germany. you dont have to be afraid of the negro because we whites know how to handle them.

"I work hard for what i get and that ingram sits there because his nigger family probably stole enough to give him an education well i go to night school myself and ingram is wasting his good education but i guess he is to stupid to do some good for anybody.

"I guess you think i dont like the coloreds but i have two working for me and when i get my own business after i finish night school i will probably have more. But these are good coloreds and they respect the laws and are thankful for what they get. these boys could show your jim ingram how to respect white people who are his life blood and feed him.

"I cant give my name or address. we are in a secret group and maybe we cant trust you, you might give ingram our names and i can tell he is a killer by the way he smiles out at you on his picture, the ugly coon!

"I am a fair man, i treat the boys that work for me just fine. i give there kids toys at Xmas and sometimes i go to there house. i bet you they know they are free. when they can come to my house anytime when they get in trouble and i get them out of jail. (I am a white man who has nothing against any race) but the ones who are ungrateful and complain instead of thanking god and white people for there good fortune.

"I bet ingram shows some respect for white folks when he meet the people. if he ever comes out here he better be respectful. we know how to get respect from them here.

"We must keep the coloreds from taking over the country, do you know that they outnumber us in the world so that is why the good jews and the good whites must get together. they are even going to Africa to get guns and money to fight over here. so you understand me and i hope you do anyway and dont be so good to a nigger that dont appreciate nothing."

The letter was signed, "truly yours, (i would give you a name but we have a secret group)"

How racked with the sickness of racism and inhumanity the writer of the letter is does not need to be explained. It's all very plain.

BLACK POWER MOVEMENT NEEDS WHITEY'S HELP

Though it is axiomatic now that white racism spawned the black power movement, and that the movement actually stems back prior to this century under various names, black people in the movement must scrutinize certain developments, not forgetting the matter of keeping the movement forceful. A movement that harbors corrupt individuals can soon become a corrupt movement and be no longer identified with the forces of truth or justice.

Black Americans must remain forthright in this regard and police the movement as if they were scrutinizing the inequities and social ills in the greater society which we attack for the same kind of thing. Blacks will have to find some way to make it known just what leaders speak for them and accurately out line, or enlighten others to, black aspirations and feelings.

For a Bayard Rustin, who presumes to speak for Negroes, to come into Detroit and make prognostications on the upcoming mayoral race here, without talking to anyone about the race except a few apparent traitors and uncle toms, was a gross insult to Detroit's black community. Even the more "moderate Negroes" who have been sparking the drive for a black mayor in 1969 in Detroit were upset over Rustin's naive comments.

One of the most racist newspapers in the city, The Detroit News, gleefully picked up Rustin's idiotic statements—in which he said that the slogan, "Black is beautiful," was wrong for blacks to utter—and printed a long article built around those statements, apparently to spotlight the livison in the black community. Unfortunately, these divisions do exist, though they are not as pronounced as the News would have Detroiters believe.

Nor are the attitudes of "house Negroes" like Rustin and his pork chop cohorts as pervasive as they would have us think. Rustin expressed some valid points about "Black is beautiful" sloganeering, but missed the point behind the slogan in the first place. He seems to think white, and is therefore of no use as a black person, let alone as a leader.

Another glaring fault in the movement is the way some of the younger militants put down other black people, some of whom have done more in a year for the cause of freedom than these young hotheads will do in their lifetime, because "He's not as black as me"—"black" being a state of mind and mental awareness. These kinds of things bode no good for the cause of liberation.

Neither does the bluffing kind of braggadacio bathed in false arrogance that many others practice. This was what one older militant was talking about recently when he told a bunch of young "Militants": "Listen, I may be from out of town, and I might not look as black as you guys think you are, but if you are so bad, and so tough and militant, why is it that the police still crack your heads at will and nothing is done about it?"

This man, in town for the recent national black economics conference, told the young militants that they seemed to be ready to institute much hatred and violence against a "suspect" black man but added, "I'll bet you shrivel up when confronted with the power of real whityracism." The man's words are all too true, in too many cases.

Braggadaccio is not needed in the black movement. Words that will be blacked up by action are needed. But those who say they want to rush headlong into violence without even thinking of anything else usually have no real program or concrete goal in the first place. Black power means black intelligence, black unity, black money and black work.

It doesn't mean simply, "Hate whitey, down with whitey or burn, baby, burn." Though there have been times, and may yet be, where those slogans may seem to apply, they are not really symbolic of the movement.

The kind of guts that it takes to think out our problems, plan some viable strategy amongst the setbacks and handicaps we have to work against, is what is going to eventually win for the black cause. And if there's anybody who still thinks that we can accomplish our goals without the aid of committed whites—and I don't mean phony liberals—he's got a hole in his head; a hole that reflects outward the kind of darkness that's not so beautiful.
